Policy:

This policy is to set out the values, principles and practices underpinning the TVVP hospital's approach to the care of patients who are terminally ill and facing end of life care (EOLC).

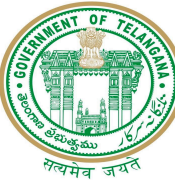

Utmost compassion and comfort are given to these patients and their families, their spiritual needs are fulfilled, and to ensure rights and functions are observed by the staff of TVVP hospitals.

Purpose:

- To ensure delivery of compassionate and competent care to the patients who are facing end-of-life-care (EOLC).
- To ensure relieve pain and physical symptoms patients.
- To ensure all staff respect emotional, personal suffering of patients.
- To ensure all the hospital staff complies with legislation, and the wishes of patients/relatives.
- To minimize Transmission Based Precautions and any risk of cross-infection.

Description of the Process:

1. The treating doctor identifies suitable family member as a decision-maker for the patient in cases where the patient is either less than 18 years of age or not in sound frame of mind. For more details, refer patient's rights policy.
2. The treating doctor gives an accurate prognosis as possible; clarifying that uncertainty is inherent in the treatment of critical illness in a language and in terms that the family/ decision maker can understand.
3. The discussions should be between the family/ patient and the treating doctor. The presence of a nurse and a junior doctor will ensure consistency in subsequent discussions. There should be multiple counselling sessions of adequate duration. The adequacy of the duration will be determined by the treating doctor on a case to case basis. Family must be given adequate time and opportunity to ask questions and to express their views and emotions. This should be done in a manner that ensures privacy, in a waiting room or similar area.

4. The possibility of death should be discussed along with the medical and palliative treatment options. The family members may express feelings of guilt or remorse that should be resolved with patience. It might be useful to remind the family that death is inevitable and medical science cannot offer cure in all situations, that during the dying process the patient needs a humanistic approach rather than a purely technical one. In case the family has difficulties, psychologist may be considered.
5. The physician will not unduly influence the family decision-making.
6. The physician should guard against imposing his own values on end of life decisions or be in any way manipulative or coercive.
7. Decision may be taken in a stepwise manner towards deescalating the treatment through discussions until the picture becomes clearer to the family.
8. Conflicts may be resolved through improved communications, deferring decisions, seeking second opinions, or a psychologist's consultation.
9. The treating doctor may not subject a patient to a particular therapy, even if the family may demand it, if it is against his professional judgment.

10. Discharge:

If the patient is discharged from the hospital pre-terminally, an appropriate discharge process ("discharged on request", "left against medical advice" or "discharged against medical advice"), in keeping with the hospital policy, should be followed.

11. When the patient undergoes withdrawal / withholding of life-sustaining modalities, the treating doctor is ethically obliged to continue to provide care that would alleviate the patient's distress.
